

REACT_{MH®} conversation training: Empowering you to support the mental health and wellbeing of our NHS people

Our aim is to equip NHS managers, supervisors and those with caring responsibilities for NHS people to confidently hold supportive and compassionate mental health and wellbeing conversations, during and beyond COVID-19.

Why this training is important

The mental health and wellbeing of our NHS people is of paramount importance. We know that line managers and those with similar supervisory and supportive roles can have a significantly positive, or negative, impact on the mental wellbeing of the people in their teams and communities. Having supportive wellbeing conversations enables our NHS people to continue to effectively deliver patient care, as psychologically healthy people are likely to perform better. Evidence shows that managers and those in similar supportive roles who are trained in identifying the need for and facilitating supportive mental health and wellbeing conversations with their team members and colleagues can reduce their risk of longer-term mental ill health by 90%.

Booking on REACTMH Conversation Training

What you will learn: This short remote live REACT Mental Health training session will enable you to identify people in your team or community who may be struggling with their mental health, initiate a supportive wellbeing conversation, confidently hold the conversation using active listening skills, and signpost them to appropriate support. You will gain new knowledge and have a chance to put this into practice during the session. The training is underpinned by psychologically sound principles and the REACT_{MH} technique comprising of: Recognise, Engage, Actively listen, Check risk, and Talk about specific actions. The REACT_{MH} technique is well-established and has been delivered for the past three years to thousands of people across public and private sector organisations.

Who is it for: All managers, supervisors and those with caring responsibilities for NHS people, in clinical and non-clinical NHS services, across all our NHS, health and care organisations – in particular those working in areas exposed to high risk of stress, burnout and disadvantaged groups during COVID-19.

Delivered virtually: Sessions last up to 1.15 hours and run remotely using virtual platform technology.

Who delivers it: NHS England and NHS Improvement are working in partnership with March on Stress who are experts in managing wellbeing during crisis situations to deliver their REACT_{MH} training.

How do I book: Visit our people.nhs.uk website and register / sign into your account https://people.nhs.uk/sign-in and then visit our events page https://people.nhs.uk/events to search for and book onto a REACT_{MH} session at a time and date that suits you.

What happens next: You will be emailed joining instructions a couple of days before the event starts. Please make sure that your chosen IT equipment (e.g. computer, phone, tablet) has the required working software (Zoom) to run the session in advance.
